GUIDELINES FOR CLUB RIDES

NYCC rides are intended to be friendly group rides; we don’t like to “drop” or lose anyone. Riders whose physical or bicycle condition seem inadequate for the ride are to be turned back by the leader. Our leaders are truly reluctant to do this, so please cooperate with them:

1) Select rides within your capabilities — avoid downgrading the ride for your fellow riders and stressing yourself “trying to keep up”; or, conversely, demanding a faster pace than advertised.

2) Be on time or a bit early. Riders will leave promptly.

3) Have your bike in good condition: both brakes working, properly inflated tires, adjusted derailleurs, no loose parts.

4) Bring water, snacks, spare tube, patch kit, pump and lights for after dark.

RIDE CLASSIFICATIONS

"A": ANIMALS: Anything goes. Eat up roads, hills and all.
"AM": SPORTS(WO)MAN: Vigorous riding over hill and dale. High regard for good riding style. Can take care of themselves anywhere. Stops every two hours or so.
"B": TOURISTS: Moderate to brisk riding along scenic roads, including hills; destination not so important. Stops every hour or two.
"C": SIGHTSEEERS: Leisurely to moderate riding. Destination oriented: nature, historical, cultural. Stops every half to one hour.
"D": BEGINNERS: Very leisurely sightseeing. Discovering bike and their bodies; training up to "C". Frequent stopping and regrouping. Do not believe reports of mere mortals riding 100 miles or more in a day.

Any member may lead a ride. See the respective Ride Coordinator to submit a Ride Listing form.

SECOND ANNUAL MAGICAL MYSTERY TOUR OF THE NEW JERSEY PINE BARRENS Leader: "Crazy Ed" Schweber (567-2661). To quote from the New York Walk Book, "There is a strange wild beauty in the region, even today, that both attracts and repels. It is not unlike a desert in this respect. 'Unique' properly describes the Pine Barrens, but those sensitive to the appeal of open space prefer the word 'incomparable' in visualizing this block of wilderness." We must get an early start and go by car down to the departure point in Lombokton, New Jersey. Ed can take three people besides himself or try to arrange a ride for you with someone else who is driving. Split gas and tolls. For more details or to make arrangements to go, call Ed by October 20th.
"GET THEE TO A NUNNERY" RIDE Leaders: Phyllis Lehmann (636-6037) and Mike Antanis ((201)420-6232 after 5 pm Mon-Fri). Meet at 9:30 am at The Seaman’s Institute, 15 State St., across the street from Battery Park in Manhattan (parking is OK, or take the No. 1 train to South Ferry, No. 4 to Bowling Green or the "RR" to Whitehall St.). Ride the length of Manhattan for a crusade to the Cloisters (for relaxation and contemplation), then back again by a different route. We’ll fill our "water bottles" at Barnabus Rex Pub after the ride. Bring lock, spare, blanket and desire to meet new people. Rain cancels. Joint ride with AMC.

TREE COUNTY 75 MILE PATCH RIDE Leader: John Lubaszka (523-2198). Follow Dashing Dan, then it’s Friendly’s treat; ride the circuit round, you’re in full retreat; speed on the flats, strength in the hills; this dandy number wins a bundle of thrills. Join your leader at 7:00 am at the Cunningham Park parking lot on Union Turnpike between Francis Lewis Blvd. and 188th St. in Queens. To receive a patch you must have a valid AYH pass and finish the ride within 5 hours. Please bring your own road map. Joint ride with AYH.

PALISADES PARK HUDSON RIVER RIDE Leader: Richard Herbin (666-2162). Leave the Central Park Boathouse at 8:30 am or the New York side of the George Washington Bridge at 9:10 am for a quick but not frenzied ride to Haverstraw via South Mountain Road. From there, riders will have the option of either taking some pretty Hudson River paths or an inland route past Lake DeForest. We will stop at a Friendly’s near the half way point.

 REMINDER: DAYLIGHT SAVINGS TIME ENDS SATURDAY NIGHT, OCTOBER 30TH ***********

WARRANT FOR AARON BURR RIDE Leader: Charles Morris (477-3281). Easy 25 miles. Meet at Sixth Ave. and 32nd St. in Manhattan on the center island (Herald Square) with 30 cents fare for the PATH train to Grove St. We’ll wend our way through forgotten streets, picnic where the dastardly deed was done, thence over to Manhattan, back again past the Carrier Enterprise. Bring lunch. Rain cancels.

SYOSSET Leader: Jimmy Rex (278-5562). Meet at the Central Park Boathouse at 9:00 am for a ride via the standard route to the Friendly’s in Syosset.

MONTEREAL INTERMEZZO

It is pitch black. Yet the din inside the brightly lit Prospect Mountain Diner at Lake George belies the time of day, or is it night? It is Labor Day Sunday and this Saturday's revelers are all here in various stages of inebriation and amorous rapture. There are also lots of stern fishermen anticipating to catch big at dawn and us, in our outlandish cycling garments, the Montreal Express.

The waitresses scurry about frantically, balancing trayfuls of plates heaping with victuals in the best truckstop tradition. We are quiet mostly, not really awake yet, sipping caffeine and chewing on medium-rare bacon strips. Everywhere around people are talking, shouting, laughing all at once. My neighbor at the counter rolls his eyeballs incoherently, bares his teeth in a bushy grin: "Montreal? You are riding a bicycle to Montreal?!! What? Tonight?! But it's almost two hundred miles!..."

I guess they do not really quite believe us, but then it is not altogether very credible at this weird hour. Is it all a dream? We are here, more than halfway up the New York State, in a place where both the City and Montreal are but distant, nebulous, concepts, hardly even facts. We are here on the strength of a single concentrated day of riding which has taken us across geological zones, urban zones, weather zones all in that one day which grew ever hazier in perception as the mileage piled up. Like a transcontinental journey, a low-level flight, a time machine. Like magic.

...By seven o'clock tonight?! You must be joking! Every aching muscle in our bruised bodies squeaks its agreement...

The diner door swings open to admit a frosty whiff of air and Steve Nauman - Dispatcher to the Tour. We crowd around his table with our route cards. Stamp, stamp, stamp ... You are cleared for takeoff.

Fog is rising from the dark water of the lake. It feels raw. The mercury has yet to complete its downward travel at five in the morning. Up ahead a short string of red lights is seen quivering up the slope. The generator whirs softly, unobtrusively, in the otherwise full silence. I shift down into 62", then 50" and settle in for the climb into the darkness. Somewhere beyond it lies another day, another flight and there, in another country, another galaxy, the great city of Montreal...

MORE BELLS!

For the third time in four months, another pair of NYCC'ers have married. When Hamlet (what club is he with?) said, "We will have no more marriages," he was not talking about the NYCC.

On August 21, in Old Tappan, N.Y., CONNIE ORENTLEICHER and BILL LENIHAN were joined in matrimony one year after meeting on a bike ride (A Friends of Central Park ride—close enough!)

Discovering mutual passions above, beyond and besides bicycling, Connie, who teaches "shop," and interior designer Bill now share Bill's last name and what had been Connie's Washington Heights apartment.

May their bikes forever be linked in happy tandem.
Congratulations and all best wishes, Connie and Bill!
"Bicycle Etiquette"

Martha Ramos

So what's a nice Raleigh like me doing in a place like this? Why I'm headed for a club ride, as usual. I am taking the subway, with bicycle, during the non-peak, non-work week hours. That is weekends and/or holidays, in the early morning. I have found it is the rare clerk or police officer who will choose this time of day to make an issue of my presence on the subway.

Since the subway system was not designed to accommodate bikes (poor planning), problems include how to use them while not inconveniencing other passengers and how to arrive at my destination - with the bike? Before considering a subway trip, I must be able to handle my bike. That is can I lift it over a turnstile and carry it up and down stairs? This also includes getting on and off of escalators.

Knowledge of the stations where I will be boarding and leaving is the next important factor. Is there a police patrol, will there be other people on the platform and is the clerk located at platform level? Questions I ask include: 1) Does the station have gate exits? I can also enter and thus not have to lift the bike over the turnstile. 2) How many flights of stairs are there? Is there an escalator and is it wide enough for me and the bike to fit? If not I use the stairs. 3) Where is the token clerk located in relation to the platform? If platform is downstairs and not normally populated I wait near the clerk until I hear a train approaching. 4) Will the only exit at my destination be a revolving door? Then I use another stop on that line or another line in that vicinity. 5) Will I have to transfer to another train? If there is more than one stop at which to transfer I try to choose the simplest to negotiate. Sometimes the difference between one stop or another may be no more than a walk across the platform.

I usually pre-purchase tokens the day before as this saves digging through pockets for change and makes for a speedy entrance into the station. Once in the station I generally stand as far up on the platform as will facilitate my boarding either the first, second or third car. (Keep in mind that early weekend trains might have less cars and not stop as far up on the platform as usual.) By using the front cars I avoid the bulk of the pedestrian population and am in or near the car that contains the motor operator. I avoid the last car even if it means waiting for the next train.

Where possible I choose one of the corner seats. This way I avoid blocking the doorways and take up no more than one extra seat space. Being seated actually takes up less space, makes it easier to balance the bike and draws less attention. Although attempting to appear inconspicuous is futile since one is probably wearing a multi-colored top (that glows in the dark), a helmet (on head) and has a bicycle (hotly) in hand.

When returning from a ride, usually between 4 - 6PM, trains will not be as empty as they were that morning. Use some common sense and a little discretion. No more than two to three riders per car. If the train is crowded, I don't board. True I have to wait for the next train but it's probably not as crowded (thus a seat) and I no longer have the same urgent need to be at a specific place by a specified time as existed that morning (if I do, I don't chose an all day trip).

And oh yes, what to do if approached by that insistent police officer? Leave (unless I am contemplating turning this into a precedent setting incident). I can easily reboard the train at another station as most stops are no more than ten blocks apart. If unsure of the next stop, then I ask the token clerk for a subway map. They're free.

So the next time the bulletin lists an interesting ride that starts in Queens, why complain when I can take the train.
The following slate of candidates was compiled (flaked off) at the September membership meeting:

How to Plan the Perfect Ride
Or, How to Drop, Add, or Ace That Hill!

Ed Schweber, A rides coordinator, has organized an excellent panel for our October meeting on the subject of how to plan and organize a ride—for one, two, ten or twenty.

Even though we have lots of good riding days left, we can get ready for cold rainy afternoons on which we can plan and partially execute that perfect ride. Ed plus Marsha Taggart (B rides coordinator), Phyllis Lehmann (C rides coordinator) and Chris Mailing (Vice President of rides) will discuss where to ride, how to plan the route, methods of scouting, mapping techniques and how to stop. The panel will also give tips on the best source books, people, etc., for creating rides.

Strong support for safe and effective bicycle transportation is expressed in a survey of statewide and local candidates for public office announced today by Bicycle Transportation Action, a non-profit civic group with a 63-member advisory board of community leaders.

"The survey demonstrates broad legislative support for bicycles as a legitimate and important mode of urban transportation," said Roger J. Herz, executive director; "specific policies and programs on enforcement, bridge access, reimbursement, safety education, and hazardous grate replacement received an average 89% support; including qualified yes replies (based on time and cost), the support level is 92%.

16% of candidates replying use bicycles for transportation and recreation, and a further 42% only for recreation; 42% are not currently users.

Per cent of candidates in support of the nine policy items is (questionnaire copy attached):

1. (100%) Governmental action to encourage bicycle transportation.
2. (97%) Secure bicycle parking and reasonable office access.
3. (95%) More summonses and warnings to bicyclists violating traffic laws.
4. (97%) School board compliance with State law requiring bicycle safety education.
5. (79%) Compliance with law prohibiting federal funding of projects severing bicycle access.
6. (76%) Reimbursement of government employees for bicycle use for official business.
7. (92%) Encouraging government employees to use bicycle transportation.
8. (76%) Phased replacement and/or retrofit of hazardous parallel-bar sewer grates.
9. (89%) Data collection and analysis on bicycle use as for other transportation modes.

In addition to the 305 yes replies, there were 15 qualified yes, 1 no, 13 no position, and 8 requests for further information. Supportive statements were included by many candidates.

38 (25%) of the 151 candidates queried responded by September 15; additional replies in transit will be included in a later report.

Bottle law faces bottling up?

The ink from Gov. Carey’s signature on the controversial bottle bill is barely dry, but already a campaign is under way to postpone the July 1983 effective date.

On June 15, the governor signed the measure requiring a 5-cent deposit on soda and beer containers. Environmentalists love the new law, but industry representatives say it will cost consumers $340 million a year in increased retail prices of beverages.

Ideally, the industry would like to see the law repealed. But realistically, the U.S. Brewers Association, one of the leading opponents, says it will settle for two amendments to the law. One would delete the provision barring the use of plastic carriers, and the other would delay the effective date of enforcement for 10 months.

This delay, according to the association’s regional vice president, Dan Adams of Albany, is necessary to give the brewers and bottlers enough time to buy new bottle-washing and other machinery to handle the return of the billions of containers.

“Michigan gave the industry two years before its bill became effective,” said Adams.

Watch for bills calling for this delay when the legislature reconvenes later this year. Adams added.

APPARENTLY it is possible to live a lifetime without ever being on time.
