PRESIDENT’S MESSAGE

Why do you ride? Some people ride simply for transportation, to get from point A to point B. I’d be willing to bet that although most members of the NYCC may do that on occasion, transportation is not the only reason that they ride. Some ride for the exercise, because they like the way it makes them feel on the inside and they like the way it makes them look on the outside. Some ride for companionship, to meet people, and to be social. Some ride because they enjoy the competition, whether it’s in a CRRCA race, getting to the top of a hill quicker, crossing the state line faster, or logging 2500 miles for the season sooner. Some ride for the thrill of accomplishment, finishing a century ride, climbing a mountain that even riders in the professional peloton dread, or for the satisfaction of finishing the ride that they started. Me? I suppose all of these reasons contribute to why I ride, but a large part of why I ride is for the simple pleasures that I get to experience while riding that I just would not experience otherwise; let me provide some examples.

Have you ever been to the pier in Piermont? I am not talking about the ‘pier’ that most people think of where the gazebo and bike shop are, but rather the pier that juts nearly one mile from the gazebo in Piermont into the Hudson River. Built in the 1800s as the eastern terminus of the Erie Railroad, the Erie Pier has virtually no traffic (in fact you need a permit to drive a car on it), is a great side trip from Piermont, and is one of my favorite cycling destinations. Once you pass the march and the Little League field, the pier opens up with fantastic breezes and views across the water that make you feel like you are on an island in the middle of a huge body of water (ok, the lower Hudson IS a huge body of water, but when you are on the pier it feels even bigger!) I often go and sit near the flagpole at the end to take a quick breather while enjoying the breeze, the sound of the water lapping against the shore, and watching people fish for awhile (if you are into fishing you probably already know that the pier is one of the best places on the east coast to catch the spring striper run.) The one mile road returning from the pier is smooth and flat (obviously) and when I arrive back in Piermont I feel like a little kid again who has just reappeared from a top-secret hiding spot!

As long as I am mentioning Piermont, there are all sorts of other simple pleasures to enjoy there. Among my favorite are collapsing into a high-armed leather chair to sip an espresso at the Bunberry Café, washing up with the Orange hand cleaner in the restroom of one of the friendliest and one of my favorite local bike shops – the Piermont Bicycle Connection – circuiting the Tallman hill climb with a detour onto the cinder trail near the river, challenging the fast-twitch muscles of my climbing legs with the Ash Street climb from the village of Piermont back to 9W, and of course snacking on a sandwich from the Country Market while relaxing in the gazebo near the water and describing to amazed tourists just how I cycled ALL THE WAY to Piermont from Central Park in New York City.

Another place to enjoy cycling’s special moments is one of my favorite cycling spots, River Road (officially Henry Hudson Drive). Here is another place that I can escape to and feel like I am miles and miles away from the hustle and bustle of New York City. My favorite part of riding River Road is to notice across the water that make you feel like you are on an island in all of the subtle factors that make this same seven mile stretch of road different each time I ride it. Last year I led a ride series in the fall named ‘A week of River Road’ and every day it was different. The sun rose over the cloisters in a different way and with a different blend of colors each morning, and the temperature and feel of the air was different. The riders each day were different (except for Terry Hildebrandt and Ron Thomson, who managed to survive the entire week, but at least they wore different clothing each day, I guess.) And although I tried to use the speed that I ‘collected’ on each of the downhill to get me started on the uphills, unfortunately my ascent to the top of the final Alpine climb was the same every day - arduous. Still, riding River Road ranks high on my list as being special. Whether it be the animals I see on the way or the way it feels to have the wind

‘How to Run Your Own Cycling Business and Find Bike Routes Across the USA’

Nancy Maier and Pedaling.Com

Come hear Nancy Maier, NYCC member and C SIG graduate, talk about how she started her website, Pedaling.com, which provides a data base of bike routes throughout the United States. Not only will Nancy tell us how she created the bike routes and the business, but she will fill us in on all the ins and outs, ups and downs of working in the cycling industry today.

Nancy went live with Pedaling.com in 2000. By 2002, she was selling advertising to bike tour and gear companies and in 2006 she began selling content to bicycle manufacturers. Nancy is an avid cyclist who rides in the New York area and in Massachusetts and Vermont whenever possible. Last Summer she biked from Jerusalem to Eilat.

President’s Message, cont’d — flying through the vents on my helmet on the downhill, it is a special experience each time and it is one of the reasons that I ride.

I could go on and on about other things, the little things, that I enjoy while cycling. Also on my list that I don’t have the time to elaborate on: ‘finding’ a misplaced crinkled ten dollar bill in the pocket of a jersey I have not worn for awhile (I reserve all ‘found’ money for drinks or coffee with friends), being passed by an unknown cyclist on Harlem Hill only to keep them in my sights and overtake them again on the west side rollers, the chipped ice in the men’s room toilet of the Northvale Diner, seeing wild turkeys or deer while summing the hills of Bradley and Tweed (I like to think that it means I am not breathing so heavily that they ran away long before I approached,) spinning with friends on a Sunday morning and chatting about just about anything, the looks of accomplishment on the SIG graduates’ faces at their graduation dinner, the feeling while I am out riding that there is nothing I’d rather be doing and no place I’d rather be than on my bicycle at that moment. Why do YOU ride?

See you out on the road,
Jeff, President, NYCC

PS— Write to Jeff at president@nycc.org with the reasons why you ride and we’ll feature your responses in our new ‘Letters to the NYCC’ section of the bulletin next month.

EDITOR’S NOTE

NYCC Berkshires Weekend
Memorial Day Weekend
May 25-28 2007

Spring time is finally here and the NYCC 2007 Berkshires Weekend is only 2 months away. There’s 3-4 days of cycling through the beautiful country roads, farmland and of course the Berkshire Mountains. There are rides for cyclists at every level. And we’re returning to the Egremont Country Club on Sunday, May 27th for our windup dinner for only $40.00! If you have any doubts, ask anyone who was with us in 2006.

It’s not too late to reserve a place to stay. Book your favorite B&B now! Please refer to www.NYCC.org and follow the links to Rides, then Club Weekends and finally the Memorial Day weekend. There you will find links to local lodging and information to register for the NYCC Sunday night dinner. The deadline for the dinner registration is May 18th. Don’t miss the deadline!

New routes and new ride leaders are always welcome. If you are familiar with the Sheffield/Great Barrington area and want to help out, let us know.

NYCC ride listings guide

NYCC rides are led by volunteer leaders. The leaders plan the route and maintain the listed speed. We list rides by level and cruising speed classifications in order to help members find rides in groups of similar ability. The pace and style of the different levels may vary, but rides all share the common objective of riding for fun, fitness and food.

Ride classifications All rides are classified according to level and cruising speed. The levels are as follows:

- A Fast, vigorous riding with advanced bike handling and paceline skills required. Stops every 2 hours or so.
- B Moderate to brisk riding with attention to scenery. Stops every hour or so.
- C Leisurely to moderate riding at a gentle pace. Sighting and destination oriented (a good introduction to the club). Stops every half-hour or so.

A number following a letter indicates the target cruising speed on flat roads: e.g. B15 = B level at 15 mph cruising speed. Cruising speed indicates the ride's speed on flat terrain. Average riding speed over rolling terrain is generally 3 mph less than cruising speed. This will vary plus or minus 1 mph, according to terrain. Overall speed, including all rest and food stops, is about 3 mph less than cruising speed.

Self-test Assess your cruising speed by timing yourself on a four-lap ride of the complete oval in Central Park (24.4 miles). Ride at a comfortable, sustainable pace. Fewer than four laps will give a false assessment. Find your time below and note the cruising speed.

Your first NYCC ride

Be conservative Choose a ride easier and shorter than you think you can ultimately handle. You won’t enjoy struggling to keep up with a ride that’s too fast for you, nor will the group enjoy waiting for you. It’s a good idea to call or email the leader a day or so before the ride and introduce yourself when signing up at the start.

Before any ride Check that your bike is in good riding condition: brakes and derailleur working well, tires pumped to the pressure specified on the sidewall. Eat a breakfast consisting of carbohydrates and proteins.

Bring a spare tube or two, tire levers, patch kit, pump, water, snacks, money, medical ID, emergency phone numbers and rail pass. We also suggest that you bring a lock. Leaders may specify other items in their ride listings.

Lead a ride

Pick a date, pick a pace, pick a destination, pick a route, write it all up and submit to the appropriate ride coordinator (listed below) by the second Tuesday of the month before you want to lead your ride.

B-rides

C-rides

Lead enough rides during the year and you qualify for a special prize (given out in December):

- 3 rides = NYCC water bottle
- 6 or more rides = NYCC t-shirt
- 12 or more rides (1st time) = NYCC Ride Leader’s vest (you can’t buy one of these—you have to earn them).
- 12 or more rides (2nd time) = any club garment of your choice.

PLEASE NOTE Metro-North requires prior notice for large groups (16 or more) on scheduled Bike Trains (Bike Trains are indicated by a bicycle symbol on the printed Metro-North time-tables) and groups of three or more cyclists on a non-bike train. When you submit a ride involving Metro-North to a ride coordinator, at the same time shoot an email off to our trusty Metro-North liaison, Hank Schiffman, at hshiffman1@nyc.rr.com. He will manage all the details but he can not do it on a piecemeal, last minute basis.

Bicycles and trains

Bike trains On Saturdays and Sundays, Metro-North has scheduled specific trains to/from Grand Central Station to accommodate large groups of cyclists. Bike trains are indicated by a bicycle symbol on the printed MetroNorth timetables. Schedules change frequently. There are no Bike Trains on holidays. Refer to the NYCC roster for restrictions which apply at other times.

Bike passes are always required. Bike passes are available at Window 27 at Grand Central or by calling (212) 499-4394 or (718) 558-8228 for an application. Also try www.mta.nyc.ny.us/lirr/pub/bicycelp.htm

Schedules Here are some commonly used departure and return times for weekends effective 1 October 2006 through 31 March 2007. Contact Metro North for the most current and complete schedules at: www.mta.nyc.ny.us/mnr

The route is pretty, challenging, and largely untrafficked. The leader is old and chronically out of shape. He cannot ride a bike uphill. That’s too bad because the route has a number of hills. You will have to wait for him atop three of them—five when Ash and Sneden’s Landing are added to the route. Please wait with grace, patience, understanding, and, if you’re smart, a long novel.

More single, rotating paceline and introduction to double paceline. This ride is hilly! Did you train during the week? Maybe even do some hill repeats? You’ll be glad if you did! Pshaw! By now you’re comfortable riding in a single paceline. We will ride up to Tarrytown on Route 9—a great place to practice rotating the lead. We will then climb over a hill to the Thornwood Diner for lunch and then return via Grassly Sprain. On the way home, if you’re good (and we know you will be), we’ll introduce you to a double paceline (non-rotating), so you’ll be ahead of the game next week. Please join me for training laps in the Park. We’ll concentrate on building up endurance, form, and good group riding etiquette. Maybe we’ll do hill repeats or interval training on Tuesdays. I’ll teach a rotating paceline for people who don’t know how to do it. I’ve done these rides for several years and they’ve always been fun. Please check the weekly email listing and message board in case I need to cancel or change anything at the last minute. Cancels: precipitation, imminent threat of precipitation, wet pavement, or temperature below 30 at the start.

The roads of Westchester open up to cycling north of White Plains. And that is where we are going. After the featured climbs we will do a counterclockwise loop of the Croton Reservoir, returning via 448/9 & Warburton. We are taking the 7:48 train on the Harlem line. Buy a one way ticket to North White Plains.

Although the STS A23 series is designed as a training vehicle for strong cyclists with paceline skills who ride it each Saturday, these rides are open to all comers who have the ability and skill to contribute to this group effort. Helmets are required. Please be sure your bike is mechanically sound and your tires are not an embarrassment. Carry fluids, pocket nutrition, cash, a means to inflate flat tires and a Metro North Bike pass. If you ride with a cell phone, enter in the ride leaders’ cell #s listed on the cue sheets while on the train. Please follow the NYCC Message Board prior to this ride as well as the morning of if uncertain about ride status due to weather.

Sundays can be fun too! If you a) can’t ride on Saturdays with the SIGs and STS’s, but b) prefer to ride on Sundays, or c) are crazy enough to want to ride on both days, join me for this mini-series of rides in April. We’ll start out flat and easy with this 50-miler to Park Ridge. No major climbing, no problem.

Brief deli breaks, no diners. Requirements - bike in good working order, must be paceline savvy and self sufficient (can change a flat and read a cue sheet).

Temps. below 25 (God help us, that can’t possibly happen) and any form of precipitation cancels. Ride status will be posted by 7:30 am on message board.

Double, rotating paceline and bike handling drills
You can’t miss this one. This is the turning point of the A-SIG. The double-pacelines we practice and hone as we ride laps around Rockland Lake set a standard of group riding that will carry us through the rest of our season together. We will alternate the lead regularly as well as practice regrouping skills for instances where we need to go from double to single lines quickly. We will also do low-speed bike handling drills on the grass in order to learn how to manage when riders bump shoulders or elbows or tap wheels. We head to Rockland Lake through a back way and then go about the business of our laps. On the way back we’ll climb over to Nyack for a chance to recover and refuel, then climb some more hills at the state line on our way to NYC. The usual: arrive early to sign in, we leave at 9:00 sharp. Rain date: Sunday, April 8.

Volunteer Recognition Party

The NYCC offers our members plenty of opportunities to give back to the organization, by leading and organizing group rides, the SICLs, STS rides, Escape New York, Club Weekends, group events, and by serving as club officers, web-gurus and the like. The Volunteers’ dinner in the Woolworth Tower was a chance for all the volunteers of 2006 to get together to reminisce about past rides and events, talk about recent news and about aspirations for the upcoming season. The place was packed; the food was marvelous, and all of the usual suspects who were in town were there. Steve the magician made salt disappear and then reappear and made the rounds to all of the tables performing this and other magic tricks. His sleight of hand appeared all the more fascinating to the NYCC crowd after we managed to make our drinks disappear. Exiting club officers and other honchos expressed their appreciation for a year well spent – VP of Programs Debbie Rothschild making a thank-you speech, and of course Special Events coordinator Hal Eshenazi ensuring that a good time was had by all.

My only question: How is NYCC going to top this next year?

WOW WHAT A PARTY!

Thank you for a fabulous NYCC Volunteers Recognition Party at a very special place, The Woolworth Tower Kitchen. The Club really out-did itself to appreciate all the volunteers who keep this organization up and spinning. The restaurant was very upscale in atmosphere, cuisine, and service, and in a great location close to all subways.

It was well attended; each group was well represented – the SICL leaders, Board members, volunteers. Everywhere I looked small groups gathered in lively conversations. It’s been a cold winter – so some of us haven’t seen each other on bikes in months – so it felt like a very welcome reunion as well as a kick-off to the Spring Cycling Season.

Plus it is always fun to see cyclists looking so fashionable dressed up in their skivvies [‘civies?’ – Ed.]. I always say that cycling is a party on wheels but it naturally leads to some close friendships even off the bike. Christy and I have appreciated over the course of our 25 or so years in the club that many of our dearest friends we have from the Club. People meet in the Club that would never have met otherwise. Where does a headhunter meet an architect, where does a major hospital? Where does a headhunter meet an architect, where does a major hospital? Where does a headhunter meet an architect, where does a major hospital?

Thanks again to the NYCC and Hal – we all felt very appreciated. Happy spring cycling season. Keep that volunteering feeling!

I think the letters above speak for themselves about this year’s volunteer recognition dinner. Most of us volunteer for the pleasure and satisfaction of helping others, and knowing that we’ve accomplished something worthwhile, while expecting nothing in return. It doesn’t hurt to be recognized and thanked on occasion either!

NYCC started saying ‘thank you’ a few years ago with our volunteer recognition dinner. I missed this year’s dinner as I was out of town, but you can bet that I’ll be there next year! You might want to think about volunteering now as we have several important opportunities that can use your help. I know that your time is worth much more than the promise of a party next winter, so instead volunteer for the Club, for yourself, and for others – and then come to the party next year anyway so we can say thanks!

Letter to the NYCC

March 2007

We get letters and emails from our members and others all of the time – sometimes friendly and sometime critical. In an effort to share your thoughts with the rest of the Club, we are creating a ‘Letters to the NYCC’ section of the bulletin where we feature your texts. We especially appreciate reviews of NYCC programs and events, and we may occasionally get content for this section from the Message Board, but if you have any thoughts that you’d like to share, please email us at letters@nycc.org or send us a letter the old-fashioned way to the Club’s address listed on the return address of this bulletin. We’re looking forward to hearing from you!

The Woolworth Tower Kitchen, on Broadway across from City Hall Park, is a fairly large space, 3 rooms & 2 bars. This building, one of New York’s older skyscrapers, was finished in 1913 and was the world’s tallest building for 17 years. The Woolworth Tower Kitchen on the first floor retains some of the character from that era, with its high ceilings adorned with ceiling fans, and its decorative entrance from Barclay Street.

We all thank Hal Eshenazi for organizing this successful event, yet another opportunity to practice recognizing people in their street clothes. If you have enjoyed group riding in 2006 and wonder if there is a way to give something extra back to the club in appreciation, then maybe you too should consider volunteering in 2007 to have fun by leading a few rides or helping with Escape New York, the SICLs, Club Weekends, or the Youth Program (for which there are a few volunteer leader spots to be filled ASAP) and we’ll be seeing you at this event next year.

Teaching Bike Skills and Having Fun

By DEREK CHU and IAN MARSH, 2006 NYCC Youth Program graduate

Goal of Youth Program
The Program’s goal is to help young adults (ages 16-22) become stronger recreational youth bicyclists. Youth bikers who are accepted into the program will ride as part of the Club’s SIG training series.

Students in the 10-week SIG spring training program will learn to bike safely and confidently throughout the NYC metro area. The youths will also improve their cycling fitness and bike handling skills.
NYCC will provide helmets and gear and a new Fuji road bike to participating youth. Youth who graduate from the program will ride with NYCC again.

“In the Cycle Club there was a discussion on how to make cycling more accessible to young and economically disadvantaged people. We thought that since many people interested in cycling don’t have bikes, let alone cycling clothes and gear, it would be appropriate to provide a bike and accessories to participants in the program,” says Rich Conroy, the manager of Bicycle Education for Bike New York and NYCC Youth Program Committee member.

Rich continues that “the question then arose of how to keep the youth coming back after the giveaways, so it was decided that the participants of the Youth Program, in order to keep the bike, would have to fulfill the same requirements as all the other participants in the SIG.”

2006 Program
In February 2006, five young men began riding with the Youth Program as part of the B-SIG 16, 17 and 18 riding groups. The youths had an 80% graduation rate as four of the five Youths successfully graduated from the B-SIG. This compares to the approximately 60% graduation rate of all adult B-SIG riders.

During the spring of 2006, Joe Lawler, 22, stated “I’m definitely eating better than I used to... I’m improving my strength and endurance also. It’s nice to be able to ride with a group of strong riders who go about as fast as you do. I want to be the best I can be so I can be more like Jared, our shop manager.” Jared Bunde is a semi-professional bike racer and manager of Recycle-a-Bike in Brooklyn.

“I’ve gotten much faster since I started the SIG,” said Edgar Castillo, 17, of Recycle-a-Bike. “It used to take me an hour to get to work in DUMBO from my house on 125th Street. Now it takes me like, half an hour.”

“I was a little intimidated at first but I definitely felt accommodated by my group,” said Youth Group member Liam Quigley, now 16. “I was encouraged to go faster by my group leaders Christian and Ivy who were especially helpful. On one ride there was a minor accident, and two people went down. But Christian and Ivy helped true my wheels and everything worked out.”

2006 Youths Learned Some Great Lessons
Lynn Baruh, NYCC Youth Program Committee member, was satisfied with the 2006 program and is excited to see it expand in years to come. “In 2006, the Youth Group had five fabulous kids who each brought their own personality and enthusiasm to cycling, but the 2006 program was only a pilot program.

“In 2007, we would like to give more kids the opportunity to participate in the Youth Program, and we’ll have to see what those kids are willing to do, and what experience they have. This year we had kids who lived and breathed cycling as much as we did, if not more. We’d like to give kids with only rudimentary cycling experience an opportunity to challenge themselves and get better at cycling.”

Attila Szekely, 17, describes his Youth Program experiences: “One of the greatest things I learned is how to save 30% of my energy while riding on road [in a paceline]. The reason I came back to the 2007 Youth Program is to help the new guys who join the program and to ride with NYCC again.”

“I would definitely recommend the SIG,” said Youth Group member Liam Quigley. “But you can’t think that you’re just going out for a little exercise on a Saturday. You have to be serious about cycling. It’s a challenging program.”

In order to graduate, participants in the SIG, or “SIGlets” in NYCC slang, must attend and complete at least eight of the 10 rides in the SIG. Not so hard right? “As a teenager, I will assure you that arriving at Central Park at eight or nine on a Saturday morning is more difficult than it seems, but the members of the Youth Group will manage to persevere and make it there each Saturday,” says Ian Marsh, 19.

2007 Program
This year, with funding from NYCC, we were able to expand the Youth Program to 10 participants. In fact, we received 26 applications for the ten rider slots. But, the final selection came down to 10 young riders - 3 young women and 7 young men – who demonstrated their commitment to the program by coming to the mid-February orientation meeting, the Feb. 24th “Fun Ride” and the March 3rd B-SIG qualifier and demonstrating enough cycling skills to be able to ride safely next to traffic.

“The kids this year are so excited about riding in the B-SIG,” said Jenn Thomson, NYCC Youth Program Committee member. “In the orientation meeting, we told them about the 70-mile B-SIG graduation ride to Cold Spring via Bear Mountain, and they all looked at us with a combination of disbelief and excitement!! After that, the ‘kids’ were very intent on qualifying for the ‘B’ so that they can ride to Bear Mountain.” And sure enough, at the B-SIG qualification ride on Saturday, March 3rd, all 10 of the “kids” made it into the B-SIG by riding 4 laps of Central Park in under 2 hours, so their wishes will come true in 9 more short weeks!!

As the SIG season progresses, we look forward to more great stories and lessons learned from the young riders of the NYCC Youth Program.

“What Do Switzerland, Northern California and Morocco Have in Common?”

By JAY JACOBSON

They are all places where long-time member Jay Jacobson cycled on multi-day tours this past autumn. (The tour prices listed below are for double occupancy and include most or all meals and the use of a high quality bike suited for the terrain and road surfaces in Switzerland and Morocco. We had Specialized bikes in California and Morocco and locally-made bikes in Switzerland.)

Switzerland: From August 17-27 we cycled eastward across Switzerland (372 miles) We started in Geneva cycling along and above Lake Geneva to Vevey. The tour (which included carless paths and roads along a marked bike route) then proceeded through such well known Swiss towns and cities as Interlaken, Lucern, Gstaad, Rapperswill (on the South end of Lake Zurich) and Lake Constance at the Austrian border. We also had an opportunity to visit the Swiss capital of Bern on the way back to Geneva.

This tour was developed and run by John Klemme (bikeswitzerland.com) a transplanted Iowan who now lives in Geneva. We were constantly in motion, had about seven one night stays (each night at a different comfortable and mostly charming) hotel. The meals were generally very good and we had opportunity to taste various Swiss wines (they were included with the dinners). We crossed through the mountains, passing cities, villages, mountain peaks and 14 lakes. The tour will cost just under $3,000 in 2007 and John has five dates planned for July and August.

One of the tour members was a resident of Switzerland in his late 20’s who was born in India and also spent time in the U.S. He weighed about 125 pounds and was the one person I couldn’t overtake on the many hills. Some of the paths weren’t paved and a few stony downhill were a little slippery after an occasional rain. The SAG wagon moved our luggage each day to the next hotel and its driver organized and prepared excellent picnic lunches along the route. However, unlike other bike companies the SAG wagon didn’t usually go along with or behind us while we were riding; however, if a cyclist got tired or it started raining, (which it did a few times) there was usually a part of the excellent Swiss railroad system nearby for us to hop on with our bike.

The scenery was spectacular. There were hillside farms with cows observing our cycling with their bells ringing from around their necks as we passed. Especially memorable was a glorious panoramic view of Lake Zurich from the summit of a mountain after its long and challenging ascent. The route was marked very well with signs at every turn. Biking is an important activity in Switzerland and drivers respected us.

I noticed that things were generally expensive and therefore felt that this tour (which included almost everything—even the train to and from the airport was included) represented a real value.

Northern California: The door prize/raffle at a cocktail party, which NYCC member Kay Gunn suggested I attend, was a bike tour and it turned out that I was the first prize winner! The prize turned out to be a bike tour of the “California Wine Country” run by destinationcycling.com. I flew out to San Francisco on October 3 using my Continental miles and had dinner that evening with my college roommate who now lives in Palo Alto, Bruce and his cycling wife, Pam.

Destination’s principal, Joe Tonon arrived from Boston the next day and we began our mostly private bike tour. It was the cycling version of the film “Sideways” as the two of us toured the Napa wine area on two wheels. He met me up in downtown San Francisco and our first stop after crossing the bridge was Mike’s Bikes in Sausalito where we picked up a couple of Specialized “Allez” road bikes. We then drove to the heart of Napa, St. Helena, and checked in at the B&B Wine Country Inn. We did a short flat “cruising” ride through the vineyards and dined at the West Coast campus of the Culinary Institute. The next day the two of us took a longer ride—a bit hilly on and around the Silverado Trail. We were joined by a friend of Joe’s and the friend’s wife. He turned out to be an executive of Clif’s Bars. The discussions we had about his company were fascinating. By the way, he mentioned that they were having a problem marketing the bars to a major New York outdoor sports store. It seems that rodents were getting at the bars and once they were “powered up” it was impossible to catch them!

The four of us rode together the next day and we had another excellent restaurant dinner and stayed at a private villa Destination had arranged. We had tastings at several wineries including Shramsburg sparkling wines. It was a great way to pass the the minutes during a brief rain shower.

We spent the last day working our way back to San Francisco, cycling around and into the hills of upscale Tiburon where we took in spectacular views of the Golden Gate Bridge and the city. Then we had an opportunity to ride through Sausalito which I was especially interested in and compared it to Piermont. They are both key cycling (port) destinations outside of major cities. Sausalito is about three times the size of Piermont and has more marble and granite as well as national retail outlets—Piermont is a little more rustic but each is charming in its slightly different way. We enjoyed lunch at an outdoor café—Sausalito’s version of the Runcible Spoon!

The final leg of this fantastic tour was crossing the Golden Gate Bridge. It was “Fleet Week” and a gorgeous Sunday—sparkling sunshine and temps in the 70’s. There were throngs of tourists and locals all around the bridge and in Sausalito watching the boats and enjoying the air show. Unlike the GW Bridge, there was a pedestrian walkway on one side (going both directions) and the opposite side was for bikes only—also going in both directions.

There were many bikes crossing the bridge and using the bike lanes and paths to and through Sausalito. I felt that they were going faster than we would go on the GWB or in Piermont. Therefore it was essential that cyclists pay attention to oncoming bike traffic and stay to the right to avoid accidents. Joe and I ended this highly enjoyable trip with dinner at an excellent Vietnamese restaurant on the Embarcadero overlooking the Bay. The final night of the tour was at the new and luxurious downtown Hotel Vitale. Their “California Wine Country” tour, which is not exactly what we did, was scheduled for three times in September and October, 2007 and is priced at $2,095.

Morocco: This Backroads five night bike tour was one of the best of the 50+ I have done! We rode in the desert and through towns and scenery reminiscent of “Arabian Nights”. There were snow-capped mountains and coastal Atlantic beaches as backdrops for our cycling.

We had opportunities to visit mosques, medinas and Arab markets. We hiked and cycled to quaint Berber hill towns in the Atlas Mountains. We frequently saw camels, goats and other animals and birds.

Our group of 18 had 3 personable and experienced bilingual French/English guides plus a support staff of six Land Rover drivers who moved our luggage and bikes between the three elegant hotels over the non-cycling stretches. The bikes provided had been modified for the roads and terrain we encountered and no one had any problem with them. Our bases were Marrakech, Ouirgame, an opulent outpost far from civilization and the amazing port and beach city of Essouria where Cat Stevens and Jimi Hendrix hung out.

The weather was near perfect—typically partly cloudy and 70's but a bit windy when we neared the coast. The four days of cycling for the long options totaled 141 miles. Only yours truly and one other cyclist did that much. I did another 15 miles or so before the tour when I was with my wife, Joan, at the coastal city of Agadir.

The ages of the group ranged from about 40 to the 60's and about half of our entourage consisted of a group from Orange County, N.Y. Aside from them and myself, there was an additional New Yorker and cyclists from Colorado, North Carolina, California and Georgia. The food was an eclectic mixture of local, Middle Eastern and Continental—all of it excellent. On most days we had relaxing lunches at informal restaurants, some outdoors. The three tasty meals provided daily were more than sufficient and I had no desire to take the “Snackroads” provided for us while we were on our bikes! We were also exposed to the local culture, religion and history on our walking tours (which totaled seven hours). Additional optional activities included camel rides, hammans (baths) and shopping. All of these activities were squeezed into a short six day period with the result that we were all exhausted.

The 2007 price for this is about $4,000 and the tours are scheduled for October and November.
What’s New on the NYCC Ride Library?

By HANK SCHIFFMAN

The NYCC Ride Library doesn’t have a new acquisitions section. This write-up is an attempt to serve that purpose.

Looking for a B/C ride that explores the littoral southern Long Island? Alinda Barth’s Long Beach–Southern Nassau route now has mileage. Starting and ending at the Statue of Civic Virtue in Queens (the Union Turnpike stop on the E & F trains), this ride turns out to have only 41.5 miles, not the 65 as previously listed.

We now have a Coney Island ride with mileage thanks to David Sabbarese’s submission of his 40 mile B/C route that starts and ends in Manhattan.

How about a long route, which ends at the easternmost of Metro North’s terminal stations? Jonathan Friedman’s NYC to New Haven via Brewster/ Danbury/ CT-34 is a ride he has been doing for the past few years. At 101 miles, plan to do this ride in the months with the longest days. It takes a beeline to Brewster before proceeding on to the coast.

On the western front, Kay Gunn’s 2 rides originating and ending in New Brunswick opens up new territory for NYCC riders. Her Sergeantsville-Green Sergeant’s Covered Bridge has 2 distance options: 80 and 84 miles of rolling terrain. The Frenchtown, NJ-3 Covered Bridges ride is 102 miles, 6000’ of vertical and includes 3 covered bridges. New Jersey Transit from Penn Station turns out to be surprisingly easy. No doubt that you will be struck by the rural character of north central New Jersey and eastern Pennsylvania’s landscape.

Robert Shay’s NYC/ Perkins/ Garrison route takes the bare bones, direct approach, 9W/ 7 Lakes Drive up to Perkins and on to Garrison for the return by train to GCT. His 125 mile NYC/ Perkins/ Greenwich Loop should give you something to chew on for a while. Once you cross over to the east side of the Hudson at the Bear Mtn Bridge you will have bailout options. However, a true loop, this ride is designed as an out and back.

If you are looking for self-flagellation via gratuitous hill climbing, look no further than Sal Cenatiempo’s Brutality route. The NJ side of the GW Bridge to Cold Spring in 105 miles with and optional 10 miles if you want to include Perkins (Bear Mtn summit), This route should either make you stronger or kill you.

Focusing on the hills closer to home, Timothy McCarthy’s “The Knot” now has mileage. I have taken the liberty of adding another cue sheet to include Ash for those who have that sort of yen.

However, this version includes 2 descents of Tweed onto 9W, perhaps one of the most dangerous junctions in our region.

John Zenkus’s Cold Spring, Saddle River has been the traditional first ride of the A23 STS canon. Most cyclists tend to ride from NYC to Garrison and Cold Spring, taking the train back to GCT. This route gets you home without having to wait for a train.

N White Plains, Whippoorwill, Roaring Brook, Loop of Croton, Hardscrabble, NYC is an 80 mile route well suited to pacelining, which was written for the A23 STS. Avoiding “junk mileage” on the way out by taking Metro North to North White Plains, its return option of taking the train from Tarrytown does likewise, making it only 54 miles but almost all of which are big, open roads.

(Not) the Gimbel’s Ride, Steve Weiss’s Gimbel’s route for the rest of us, starts and ends in Central Park. This ride of 76 miles gives us the ability to peddle the roads of this famous venue without fear of being dropped.

Ron Roth’s Warwick Beacon Loop is not a loop. But I suppose if you roll your bike out your door in the morning and roll it back in when you return, all rides are technically a loop. This route starts at The Boathouse and ends at the Metro North station in Beacon. The meat of this 100 mile ride cuts a big C shaped swath out of Orange County.

Fred Steinberg, the 700 pound gorilla of NYCC routes, has just completed the second edition of his 500 page second tome, “Routes of Sleepy Hollow – Croton Dam, without Briarcliff Manor.” Just joshing. He has refined a number of his routes plus added a few new ones. White Plains to the River is a 58 mile out and back from The Boathouse which goes to North White Plains then crosses the ridges of Westchester to Tarrytown with a return train option of 36 miles. NYC/ White Plains/ Kensico Loop/ Tarrytown/ NYC is a 73 mile, longer version of this ride, extending to Whippoorwill and Nanny Hagen. Harriman Hills # 1 is a hilly, 80 mile route to Peekskill with most of the northerly mileage directly up 9W, leaving the rest of the route to fine roads in the hills of the Ramapo highlands.

I have a few requests make to our membership. Please submit cue sheets of new routes you have created which you feel have merit but are not redundant. Does anyone have a route of the circumnavigation of Manhattan via the bike paths? And please, report any errors you find on routes in the library.

Yours,
Hank Schiffman, Ride Librarian

LA CORSA TOURS

It all began on a ’92 Sig ride . . . when Lori, the NYCC V.P., and Howard, a NYCC club member, talked about starting a bike tour company for avid cyclists. Soon after, La Corsa was founded.

La Corsa’s first tour, to Marche & Umbria, Italy, was for NYCC members only. Many of you have ridden with us over the years.

La Corsa Tours has enjoyed 15 years of offering challenging bike vacations to France, Spain and Italy. To celebrate our continued success we invite you join us at a great savings. It’s our way of saying thanks for a great start and for your support over the years!
